Labor Leaders May Be Guilty

Police Authorities Say that

McNamara Conference.

Angeles, Dec 3.—"The United States Government and California authorities are co-operating to ferret out one of the most gigantic crimes ever conceived in the history of this country," was the declaration today of Assistant District Attorney Joseph Ford, second in command to District Attorney John D. Fredericks, the man who was arrested in Los Angeles for illegal extradition of the J. McNamara.

"It is only a question now whether the Federal government or state authorities can reach conspirators and bring them to justice more effectually," continued Mr. Ford.

A former has been in charge of gathering of evidence for the prosecution, and while his chief, Assistant Attorney Fredericks, was working on a ranch near here today, Ford occupied himself with the details of the McNamara case.

He admitted that the prosecution under surveillance is another of the country some prominent leaders alleged to have been involved in the Times explosion, but that arrests might first be made by the Federal authorities in connection with its investigation.

The Federal government has taken every disposition to assist us we are helping them as much possible," he said.

The vigor with which the Federal government is pressing its investigation into the conspiracy, which is alleged to extend over the entire country, has been increased within the last fortnight, according to a report of an informed person here and in Washington. It is observed that United States District Attorney A. E. Crawford is present but couldn't trust himself. Mr. Fredrick, and District Attorney Miller of Minneapolis, and District Attorney Fredericks, are in close communication.

Evidence desired by the Federal jury in Indianapolis from this up toward Gadsden will go toward as quickly as it is asked for, Ford said. This question has been raised repeatedly by local authorities have not yet enough to warrant an immediate trial their position until today.

The ramifications of the matter are best left in the hands of the Department of Justice. But while in the city he was the guest of Mr. W. F. Gammill.

One of the young couple lived near Birmingham's Grand and the other in Indianapolis from this up toward Gadsden.

The annual lodge of sorrow was conducted yesterday afternoon by the local order of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks, and the services were attended by a large number of people who witnessed an interesting program. The occasion was held in memory of Dr. B. Philipps and Paul B. Johnson members of the Dothan Lodge 1133 who died this year. Dr. Phillips died on July 23 and Mr. Johnson answered the death call on the first day of last month.

An interesting program consisting of songs, addresses and local numbers was carried out in a very appropriate manner. The Kraut orchestra through the courtesy of the management, took part in the programme and several beautiful selections were rendered during the afternoon. The hall was tastefully arranged for the occasion and every decoration was of the type characteristic with the Elks. The building was comfortably heated and the large audience that attended seemed to enjoy the entire afternoon.

THOMAS LAWRENCE

Harry Thaw is studying law probably with the idea that it will bring him out but he will have to get his own lawyer. Some one has told him, too, that when a man pleads his own case he has a fault for a client.

Harry also knows that, for he has spent great wads of money to prove that he is a "boy."

He may become a useful citizen if he has really run through with all the money his family has and gone down to bankruptcy and learns to make a living.

But he has a more reason than he should like to his bringing up his bad boy money. It has come in like the cone of rich parents and it is no secret during his boyhood what it was to do in honest days work if he ever actually used one of the dollars he spent in his boyhood on him.

LADY SHOPPING FAIR

Advising people to shop early does not go well probably. The petticoat house that advising people to live a different life before it is too late does not always wake the wayward traveler born about his face.

We all know that death is certain, but it has been such a common thing that no one pays much attention to it as if it were a freak piece of news. You tell a man he must die to-morrow, or next Friday, and that puts a different phase on it. That is something definite.

We begin telling people the first of the year to do their shopping early to avoid the rush during Christmas time and they know that Christmas is coming, but they feel that they have plenty of time, and put it off as they do a good many other things.

On the afternoon of Christmas Day we will rush out on the streets with the view of buying gift-wrapping. We think we hasn't had time before and feel hurt and surprised that so many people have been there already. Naturally we buy the wrapping not getting what we want, but knowing that it won't do to go back empty-handed.

HOLIDAY AT LAST

A man picked up a chair and put it out on the street corner in Dothan Saturday evening; stepped up into it and began to make a Socialist speech.

We had been expecting him, or another like him, for some time.

Don't know why he was delayed.

Dothan is not a hotbed of Socialism and probably never will be. We haven't a sufficient population of foreigners to make socialism thrive.

The people here are satisfied they work, and try to accumulate property, and whether they get all from politics they expect dictators, but few. Our people have come enough to know that to accumulate property they must work for it and they did that honest, radiator as it is, as much means in this country at any place on earth. Should we end winter it stands for little, not much, money in the workers' nests packed in Dothan County.

The man who did it is a claim-stating claimant to be a workingman. His looks are out of the ordinary, but he isn't. He isn't a fool just how he got his speech was not made known during the past of the lecture we heard.

The library which is I consider the standard literature with a few people who have never been noted for their wide reading of other literature is circulating over the count-try, and it stands for Socialism.

It appeals to the man who is on bad terms with the world.

Socialism, as man has expressed it, deserts the man as soon as he becomes a property owner.

One day next week, a lady Socialist is to talk at the court house to tell the people what she thinks. The Socialist speaker, like the patient in the literature of you hear to all he has to say, will come around to your views, or distract a sympathy you think you have.

NATIONAL GOVERNMENTAL DECISIONS ON DEBTORS

While a great deal has been said on the unkindness or harshness of bonds or soda, but little attention has been given to the attitude of the United States Government on the subject. The fact is the ruling of the government officials on the question of the use of sodium benzoate in foodstuffs is inconsistent to a degree according to the Journal of the American Medical Association. They have pronounced the chemical dangerous and they permit its use in unlimited quantities in foods, but ban the absurdity—they insist that those manufacturers who use it shall declare on the label both the presence and the proportion of the chemical used. Why should a candy maker, for instance, be forced by the government to state the presence and quantity of sodium benzoate in the product which the same government has pronounced dangerous and which it ought to be used in quantity? It is an act and failing to see that a manufacturer could declare the presence and proportion of one ingredient of his products—on a label which the government claims to be wholly wrong—with the presence of any other wholesome ingredient may remain a secret. It is highly probable that if this ruling were brought up to the courts, it would be declared discriminatory and illegal.

The only possible explanation for such ridiculous inconsistency is that if the government officials who issued this decision knew that they had the wrong side of the controversy and that the American public was not with them. In other words, because of soda is not nutritious and the concession to the manufacturers called for a compensation sop to the people. So the officials hedged by injecting into their decision a technical restriction in the use of the chemical in foodstuffs.

THE COUNTRY CHURCH

The country church is the sentinel regent of the rural community. The country church and the country community are like man and wife, they have not always agreed nor always respected one another, but each one has shown the effect of the other's experience.

When the town is poor, the church languishes. When prosperity comes to the church, though it is not first to prosper, will not be the last institution to enjoy prosperity. If the town is prosperous in spirit, the church will be open and friendly. If the town has bred a small group of creative people, the church may come "A rich man's club." If the economic life of the town gives opportunity to all men, the church will have constant terrors and threat men in ill audiences and membership. If the town neglects its children and makes poor provisions for education, the church will probably consist of a few old men and women.

The churches in America exhibit a record for the economic history of the country. Three great phases of American industry have been reflected in the forms and methods of church life. First of all the pioneer in America had his church which was like himself. The plan was a lonely, independent worker. He must get from the soil all his food and from the forest all his meat. He must be at once a farmer, a gardener, the middleman, the merchant and the consumer. He practised at the trades he was born to, butcher, tanner, shoemaker and baker. He raised the flocks and prepared it for spinning. In his own home he spun, woven and wove.

Admiral Smith has often shown that this life of varied industries produces content because between each two processes there is need of an interval to start the worker in the practice of the new occupation—Home Field.

The life now which is I consider the standard literature with a few people who have never been noted for their wide reading of other literature is circulating over the coun-

TRAFT AND ROOSEVELT.

When Mr. Roosevelt authorizes Philadelphia North Americans to say that he "will not support any man for the nomination in 1912, political," Traft nor any one else," he brings his opposition to Sir Traft's renomination into the open.

If he is not for Mr. Traft he is against Traft. That is plain enough. It cannot be held that Mr. Roosevelt is withholding support on account of a lack of sense of responsibility and of the dignity due to the great office he has once held. Mr. Roosevelt is not that kind of person.

When he was President he used all the power of the office to nominate Sir Traft as his successor.

When he was the only living ex-president and in control of the Republican machine in this state he used all his power to nominate Sir Traft as Governor. In 1908 he was against everybody who was against Traft. In 1910 he was against everybody who was against Traft. In refusing to support Traft now he publicly joins the Republican elements that are endeavoring to prevent Traft's nomination.

What is to be the outcome? If Traft is beaten in the convention, can one man beat him? That man is Roosevelt. LaFollette cannot do it. There is no other candidate. There is nobody else with the necessary qualifications of a candidate.

Mr. Roosevelt is playing his game with extraordinary skill. If it should appear in June 1912 that no Republican can be elected President he can delay the nomination and bring a Wilson load of documentary evidence to prove that he was never a candidate. If there is a probability of his own election he can find a nomination easily from Traft and Traft at the higher law.

All the elements of a divided and demoralized party would rally around him. The insurgents would accept him as an insurgent. The socialists would accept him as a stand-patter who never lifted a finger against and extorter of tariff. The old-line Republicans would find in his candidacy a chance to save the United States Senate. Wall Street would welcome him as the destroyer of the Sherman law and the hope of constructive legislation satisfactory to Big Business.

The first thing to do, however, is to make Traft a safe hopscotch, and Traft himself is attending to that. Mr. Roosevelt will do the rest N.Y. World.

NOTHING TO IT

There must be something to the commission form of government.

It has been tried as an experiment by good many cities in the South.

In Sunday's Atlanta Journal is a strong editorial calling attention to no record of Trenton, N.J., a city of something like a hundred thousand people.

We quote from the Journal:

"At a special session some six months ago, Trenton, the capital of New Jersey, wit a population of approximately one hundred thousand and abandoned the adiomatic form of government in favor of the commission plan. Five commissioners were duly chosen by the people, each being assigned his particular department. Then began the serious task of reorganizing the affairs of the city once machine-tidden city upon a basis of business efficiency and popular control.

The results that have been accomplished within this brief period and despite the many difficulties which the old system entailed are such as to challenge the interest and admiration of every American community. Evils that were formally hidden but none the less baneful have been brought to light and abolished. Public improvements and enterprises that were trammelled or gorged have been launched and are moving, vigorously forward to success.

Powers that once lay wholly in the wind bag grip have been denied to the citizens. Waste and graft have been checked at every turn and there is positive evidence that by the end of the first year of new system the tax bill of the city of Trenton will have been reduced to sum of $1 million dollars.

In commenting further on this division of Trenton the Atlanta Journal says:

Dovery originated in the South this system has spread to the west and thence to the east until it is now over the popular thought has become nationwide. Within the past two years more than two hundred American towns and cities, mastered throughout the states and representing every type of municipal procedure, have adopted the commission plan and each of them has turned out a record parallel to that of Trenton.

Surely the time has come when every forward-looking, true-minded community that is struggling under an outworn administrative plan should take account of a system that has proved so widely popular and desirable.

to unknown form of government is now adopted. It stands for the old principles.

Any form of government that places all the authority in the hands of the people is bound to be sound.

True form of government, as the South states, originated in the South and has been a success in every city that has tried it. That within itself ought to be sufficient reason why it should be good for every city.

OUR IMMIGRANTS

Probably the labor unions of the world will claim that the McNamee men plead guilty to blowing up the Times building because of the pressure brought to bear.

They probably plead guilty to save their necks. They didn't have enough evidence to clear themselves or they would have never pleaded guilty to so row a crime, that of taking the life of an innocent person.

It is curious that Roosevelt failed to do it. There is no other candidate.

There is nobody else with the necessary qualifications of a candidate.

Mr. Roosevelt is playing his game with extraordinary skill. If it should appear in June 1912 that no Republican can be elected President he can delay the nomination and bring a Wilson load of documentary evidence to prove that he was never a candidate.

If there is a probability of his own election he can find a nomination easily from Traft and Traft at the higher law.

All the elements of a divided and demoralized party would rally around him.

The insurgents would accept him as an insurgent. The socialists would accept him as a stand-patter who never lifted a finger against and extorter of tariff.

Somebody has said that some years ago, an old time friend of Col. Curtis, the owner of the Times, asked him to take his boy in the office and teach him the printing business a boy of ten or twelve years.

Then men on the paper didn't like it. It didn't belong to the union, this boy didn't, and they walked out. The owner of the paper taught the boy union after that and only employed non-union labor. He had been having trouble with the union ever since.

There are too many foreign-sounding names mixed up with that right to suit the fancy of the native Americans.

When the lower order of humanity is dumped into this country, in many cases criminals and shiftless people from abroad, they start a row of some kind as soon as they learn enough English. They have been accustomed to oppression all their lives, and have known nothing else but to form pacts and cliques against capital and their government.

When the fine fertile soil over here it is but natural that trouble starts.

As are enough togethers among hand in hand in many of the western states, where such a great number of the population is of foreign birth.

In congested districts, like Birmingham, they are getting a deeper hold. No merchant or business house in that section would dare call a word against the unions. Their business would go to ruin.

Unless more stringent laws are passed regulating immigration we are going to have trouble all over this country.

That is why we have always thought it a good idea to pull for home grown folks for Houston county. We want citizens who know something of our form of government and who are after making a home for themselves.

Some sections of the country are being settled up with an element of foreign origin that is not objectionable but as a rule the people from the other side are not as quick to catch the step with our people.

Houston County isn't blessed any thing in the long run by not having itself in settling foreigners here to take the place of the negroes in town. The negroes didn't like it with a show. They know what to expect of him.

The negro has not been confined to or confined to the destroying of a couple of hundred thousand dollars worth of property, and killing a lot of innocent people, just for spite against one man and his method of doing business.

Saw Great Value of Railway
Passes in Politics.

Dean Richmond Was the First Man to Discover the Power of Free Transportation in Obtaining Legislative Favors

By E. J. EDWARDS

Recently on the authority of the late Commodore Alfred Van Bantwood who at the time of his death was the wealthiest and most successful steamboat line proprietor in the east, I told how Dean Richmond of Buffalo became the real father of our railway consolidation by reason of a sudden fit of狂热 (mania) which caused him while he was sitting upon the British canal. Commodore Van Bantwood knew both Dean Richmond and Commodore Vanderbilt well, and he was always of the belief that the latter who eventually looked upon as the father of modern railway consolidations came from Dean Richmondfit of狂热 (mania). In consolidating, in 1863 the seven railway lines stretching from Albany to Buffalo into the New York Central railroad which after Richmond's death Commodore Van Bantwood linked with the Hudson River Railroad.

But Dean Richmond according to Commodore Van Bantwood did not make his discoveries in railroad management or in the law of consolidation but was also the discoverer of the political and legislative value which was contained in the railway passes. Dean Richmond let it be understood that from the mid-forties to 1874 no Democratic Leader in New York state could have had an adequate gift of his party but a mate friend. However, Ward and Republicans had no such mate in the year decline of my nomination to give him either

In so far as I followed the railway business, Mr. Richmond one told Commodore Van Bantwood, railway passes were given almost solely to railway employees, although sometimes they were handed to merchants who made large use of railways for transportation, as I learned when I was in the produce business in Buffalo. But after I got my railroad organized I began to extend as a mere matter of course, the pass privilege to my political friends in the state legislature. I soon found out that if there is one thing that a member of a legislature likes it is railroad pass. I also discovered that if I gave passes to the members I was sure of their friendship, and could get anything I wanted. And I made the further discovery that a pass was a very easy way of getting rid of an impudent politician or of one who was giving us annoyance.

There was in Buffalo a politician who made me think of a humbug here. He was a persistent nuisance. We did not know exactly how to get rid of him.

One day he called upon me and told me that he would take it as a very great favor if I would give him a pass to New York.

"I told him that nothing would give me greater pleasure provided he would promise to use the pass in case I gave it to him."

He replied that of course he wanted to use it for himself, and that he wouldn't think of asking for a pass for himself to be used by somebody else.

"So I made a pass out and I handed it to him, saying that unless he kept his promise to me I would cancel it." "He thanked me and went off. In a few minutes he came back and told me that there was something wrong about the pass. In fact, he told him there was nothing wrong about it.

"Why?" said he. "I only goal on way from Buffalo to New York. "Well," said I, "that's just what you asked for. And I was ready enough to give you the pass to New York because I hoped when you got there you'd stay there. I gave it to you to get rid of you and if I'd given you a return pass should be sure to come back."

Well, it did get rid of him. He went to New York, lied up to some of the local politicians there and never came back to Buffalo. I have never given a pass that brought me better payback than that one.

Some Few Changes
Well, well! said the man who had wandered back to the old village. So the Purple House is still the Purple House. No change after twenty years.

There have been a few changes, responded the oldish inhabitant. Since you've been gone the hotel has been respectively the Grant Central, the Grand Union, the Grand Junction, the Great Northern, the Great Southern, the Imperial, the Royal, the Empire, the Rexton, and the Madison House. She's just starting around the circuit for the second time.

English Aristocracy and Commoners

The English nobility are a well-groomed race holding up the army all day long and you're second hand and in good condition. Our older American officers know that return to new fat and green they often look like what the French call "the rats of the dinner." But the line between the English aristocracy and the people is clearly drawn. This was and looks like supercilious and an inferior class. The upper classes are very superior in fact. His lower classes are very inferior. See it.

25—OFF ON ALL CLOTHING—25

A reduction that means saving money in clothes

My Stock of Clothing was bought expecting 15c cotton and cold weather. We are having 7 and 8c cotton, and warm weather. This condition makes it necessary for me to reduce these goods to selling point. Considering that the stock is all new and well selected, I think that 25 per cent reductions in all clothing, overcoats and boys clothing, will move them.

For instance look at these prices.

UNDERWEAR

The price will be reduced some on the winter underwear and a few other things.

It is the clothing and overcoats, for men and boys, that I am expecting to sell, rather than carry them over.

The Clothier

out a feeling to burl and with not a pardon to beg!

"Well in the morning we got ready for church. We ate breakfast in fairly good temper and almost in peace. However, this visitor nearly erred when I teased her about selling ancient eggs to the city people—her father a farmer—so I decided that my jokes were misplaced and pretty bad anyway. So I adopted the policy of silence.

I didn't say a word to her all the way to church. My sister walked back of us with the rest of the family as the visitor and I had the advance guard all to ourselves.

"I was worried too on account of—well you know, Miss Bruce sometimes—

"Oh well anyway the visitor and I were getting on famously as I thought, when I suddenly heard a hit the sob.

"There I was on Sunday morning bound for church and passing every one I knew and in danger of running into Miss Bruce at any minute—and with a sulking young woman on my hands! I should have cut and run—but I was sorry for her. I'm sorry for all weak-minded people, women especially."

"I had to break my resolution about talking to her, so I asked, 'What's the matter?' as nothingly as I could."

"My question must have been more nothing than I had intended for she grabbed me by the arm and shed have fallen into my arms if I hadn't held her."

"Oh! she exclaimed. 'You're angry with me! How can I go to church with some one angry with me?'

"And there right out loud as if I had been accusing her of all sorts of things she begged me to forgive her!"

"Say it was the truth! I tried to straighten her up and I told her to behave in public and just as I was doing my best and she was weeping her hardest and leaning all over me along came Miss Bruce!" The bookkeeper sighed disconsolately.

"What do you do then?" asked the little stenographer deeply interested.

"Nothing! I just gave that tear stained graven image a shove and told her to go to blazes!" but Miss Bruce did give way by that time."

He jerked the ledger open and began adding up the columns of figures for the eighth time.

King George in Paris
King George is interested in the at tempt to raise tobacco in English empires. A few years ago an Irish merchant suggested to John Burns that the king then prince of Wales should be asked to smoke a cigar of Irish tobacco. He said Mr. Burns "is the duty of his majesty's ministers to protect the heir to the throne from assassination"—Pall Mall Gazette.

Cottonseed Oil Is Cause of Pellagra

SCIENTISTS DISCOVER MANY THINGS THAT IS SAID TO CAUSE OF DISEASE

Washington Dec. 4 After many months of investigation at the Hospital Service in the United States, it has been found that the greatly varying number of South Carolinians suffering from the disease and continuing to increase during the past six months when there is no sudden change in their eating habits, is due to the fact that they are eating more cottonseed oil than any other food. Contrary to popular belief, it has been reported that every physician in the United States with patients in South Carolina has from five to twenty-five percent of his private practice of the disease. Much more Auditorium Surgeon John D. Long, says in this country children it may be demonstrated that a good diet to treat cases can be effected even up to the point much more effectively than the attack but that the adult should show improvement hope when the patient has reached a point of reversal. When the disease reaches the point of creating insanity a remedial method proves difficult and nearly all patients cannot be made of distinction.

Cotton seed oil with some other variation as well as a species of grain is supposed to cure the disease although there is no known relation to the cause.

ANOTHER AVENGER KILLED

San Juan Porto Rico police held Schuster, a well known and popular man, 111 years old, under suspicion of still being a killer he was among the 100,000 who fled the island after the United States invaded it in 1903 while on the way to fight the rebels. The old man was found dead in his bed.

Schuster, raised at Ponce with 11 other children and eight a mother of 11, is said to be the last survivor of the original inhabitants of the island. He is the last of the original population of 100,000 who were born before 1898.

INDIANAPOLIS

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—Mr. C. G. Lynch, 40, his daughter, Mrs. Nancy Lynch, 19, and her husband, Edward O'Leary, 30, were found dead on Oct. 21, and 22, around 11 o'clock each morning. It is a result of the mother attempting to burn the house down with gasoline and gasoline in mouth of her child.

The oil can exploded in the mother's hands and in his attempt to extinguish it in flames, the child rushed to help him. Mr. Lynch and his younger son helped the flames. With fire a railroad Watchman attracted by the smoke extinguished the fire.
